

I am emeritus professor of psychoanalytic psychology at the University of Kent in Canterbury where she teaches an undergraduate course, 'Freud & Post-Freud', in the university's school of psychology. I also work as a clinical psychologist for the NHS in Canterbury. My books include Mothering Psychoanalysis, Kleinians, Freud's Art, and, most recently, Art, Psychoanalysis, and Adrian Stokes: A Biography. Further details can be found on my University of Kent website page: <https://www.kent.ac.uk/psychology/people/sayersj/>. I have recently reviewed Élisabeth Roudinesco's Freud: In His Time and Ours, and John Forrester's Thinking in Cases for Times Higher Education.

Share this:EmailPrintFacebookTwitterTumblrMore